

DENNIS COTE

Director, Coaching & Facilitation

Dennis is a seasoned technology executive focused on infrastructure and architecture (CTO/CIO Roles). Dennis is experienced in executing the process to move a strategy to a business case to successful execution within the technology space. Dennis' experience spans the gamut of insourcing, outsourcing, cloud and application implementations. Most recently he developed and implemented strategies around Cognitive AI and Customer Digitization.

His most recent role was as the CTO of a North American Services company where the services team as well as the technology teams reported into Dennis. Prior to this he held roles as a technology executive in a financial institution. Dennis started his career at Nortel where he held numerous roles as an Executive that delivered telecommunication products to Telcos and Private Enterprises.

Dennis enjoys working the big challenges as much as finding those small innovations that move things forward. He is engaged the most when solving problems – typically complex problems in the technology space that require solutioning, a business proposal to proceed and execution of the strategy. These complex problems can run the gamut of technical, financial and reputational.
